TED MOUDIS ASSOCIATES ANNOUNCES CHICAGO OFFICE RELOCATION

New York, NY – Ted Moudis Associates has recently relocated and expanded its Chicago office to the prestigious LaSalle Wacker at 221 N. LaSalle. Ted Moudis, A.I.A., the firm's founder and Senior Principal made the announcement from their headquarters in New York City.

After initially opening in Chicago in 2001, Ted Moudis Associates has moved uptown and expanded its current office. Relocating to the historic 1930's Art Deco LaSalle Wacker building provided an ideal location to service clients and is conveniently juxtaposed to the famed Merchandise Mart design center, a superior influence to the Chicago design community.

The design aesthetic was meant to echo that of the standards of its New York headquarters, while adding a bit of its own character. A highly collaborative and team-oriented office environment was created. There is an open plan layout, low workstation panels, teaming tables and extensive use of clear glass to promote openness. The latest technology was also vastly incorporated, as maintaining a seamless connection to the offices in New York and London is critical.
